

TAILS & BEAU

- The School Holiday Solution

The Venue

We soon realised that we had won the lottery finding St Andrew's Church; Chelsea. The outdoor garden proved to be a safe haven for the children to explore. Friendships bracelets were made under the trees, sport was enjoyed on the AstroTurf, leaf gathering was supervised in bushes, canvases aired in the midday sun, drama activities were enjoyed in the pirate ship, lunches were eaten in the shade, and team building activities were run in the open air. It is a magical space that was used to its full potential. Come rain or shine this is a space that will be fully utilised in weeks to come.

And so the journey of Tails and Beau begins .....

We have always been particularly passionate about providing children with exciting and stimulating activities during school holidays. You might remember that Tally and Ruth met 5 years ago, whilst working together in education. Ruth led a PE department, and Tally was assisting the Head alongside her Junior School

Administrator role. At this early point the girls were keen on providing children with essential life skills that develop self-confidence and creativity.

After much consultation, Tally and Ruth launched an activity week in July 2017. Children excitedly embarked on a Tails and Beau experience that enriched their minds, explored creativity and promoted happiness.

Visiting Specialists

At Tails and Beau we like to offer something that is that extra bit special, that's why we partner up with local London professionals who run super fun sessions for your children.

Plox London

We had the pleasure of welcoming Plox London to run an arty workshop. Children embellished hearts, made dragonflies and decorated fans! A huge thank you to Olivia for coming along and inspiring our children to 'play creatively'. Olivia also runs children's art and craft parties.

Lucy Ivison

It was wonderful to be able to secure the one and only Lucy Ivison who is a children's author as well as a super cool librarian. Lucy came to Tails and Beau to deliver an action packed storytelling session. The children's minds went wild, as she led them through an exhilarating drama session.

Activities

It was clear from the start that Tails and Beau captured the children's attention and imagination from day one. Activities had been planned in such a way for all children to feel valued, happy and most importantly allowing them to succeed through creativity and guided 'free thinking'. The week started with gentle exploration tasks that encouraged the children to introduce themselves and get to know one and another. As the confidence grew so did the task. It was simply magic watching the children accomplish challenging and exciting physical, mental and creative tasks.
